EDECIES BONDS HOUSEHOLD WORDS must sooner or later prove to be in the United States, what it is in England, the most popular

ticularize, but not too unimportant to merit at periodical published. It is an exact reprint of the English Edition. 32 pages 8vo., with several pages of original matter, statistics, &c., by the American Editor. and forms two elegant volumes every year of permannent value for every library. The pres-ent volume commenced in November, but sub-scriptions may be commenced any time. The back numbers may be had of the publishers. We subjoin a few of the very many notices constantly received from the Press, in every

"There are few publications that we take solid pleasure in reading than the House hold Words. We are not naturally melanchol ly; but, if we were, a permanent cure could easily be effected by spending an occasional hour over this most excellent work." "The original work has attained such an un-precedented popularity, both in England and and this country, as to render any commenda-tion of it superfluous. For variety and richness of information, vivacity of style, and genial tone of feeling, it has no rival in English periodiend literature." "Charles Dickens has gained a prominent place among English writers, and is almost reckoned the originator of a distinct 'school' in literature, rie has hit upon a popular vein, which is always a profitable one. He has been extensively read. We have never felt called upon to be much of a fiction reader, but we confess in our 'young days' to have pored over the 'Pickwick Papers,' and 'Oliver Twist,' and 'David Copperfield,' not only without injury, but with profit. He sketches character instructively, and inculcates humane and useful lessons in many a trile. 'Household Words,' however, is not fictitions in its character, but is matter-of fact, and full of practical wisdom-"

"It is one of the most wetcome weekly visit-ants to our table. Its well printed pages are in-viting, and never fail to reward the reader. It contains 32 pages weekly, and is furnished at $1,50 to clubs of ten. We understand that a club is now forming in town, and those who desire to introduce valuable and instructive readamilyes, should not fail to improve the opportunity thus presented.
